Governor Graham aids in Glades pot harvest

By BOB BENZ

Gov. Bob Graham came to Glades County wielding a machete on Friday, Nov. 16, and by the time he left, two patches of marijuana had been destroyed and two Glades County residents were arrested and charged with felony possession of marijuana.

Randall Draughon, 25, and Deirdre Lynn Bowen, 21, were arrested after a Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) plane circling the area where two marijuana patches were being destroyed saw them tossing marijuana plants over a fence in their backyard.

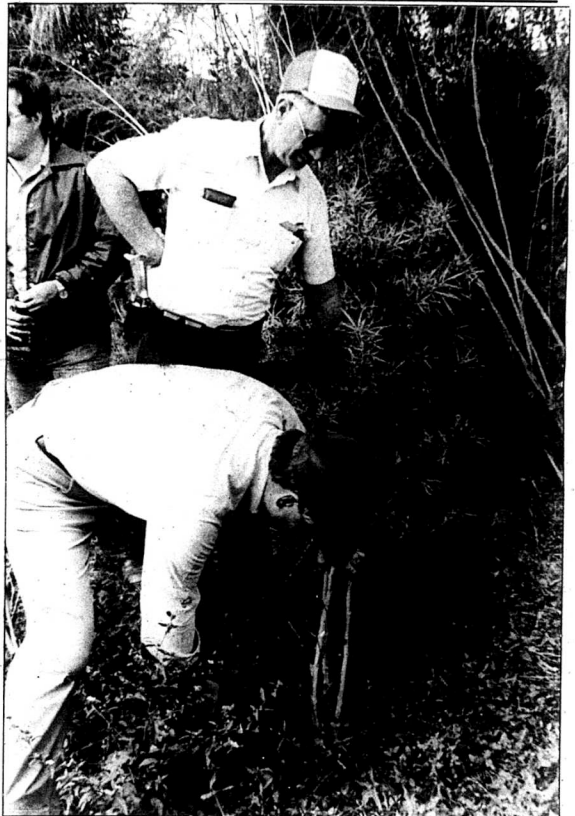

A total of 100 plants with an estimated value of $25,000 were confiscated in Friday's raid.

Although Graham's trip to destroy the marijuana was planned, the two arrests were not. Graham accompanied FDLE agents and Glades County Sheriff's Deputies when the arrests were made.

Draughon and Bowen were charged only in connection with marijuana and drug paraphernalia found at the Red Barn Road house they were renting.

The undertaking began on Thursday, Nov. 15 when FDLE agents were unsuccessful in spotting marijuana patches from the air in Lee and Charlotte counties. They called Glades County Sheriff Russell Henderson, who suggested

Cane League reviews Farm Bill

By BILL DOUGHTY

The Florida Sugar Cane League held its 21st Annual meeting Friday, Nov. 16 at John B. Boy Auditorium and once again the main topic of concern was 1985 Farm Bill Legislation, which includes a continuation of the sugar program.

United States Congressman Jamie L. Whitten, (D-MS) was the keynote speaker at the luncheon.

As Chairman of the 57-member Appropriations Committee and a member of all Appropriations Subcommittees, as well as Chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture, Rural Development and Related Agencies, Whitten has long been an ardent supporter of the League's work.

Whitten's speech stressed the importance of agriculture and sugar's vital roll in the overall structure of the nation's economy.

He addressed the League's concern on the farm bill. "We need to see we have adequate domestic supplies, whether it be gas, rubber or sugar."

Whitten also cautioned the farm group, saying that while it would appear that a continuation of the sugar program would seem academic, "you never know what Congress will do."

One of the major problems is that the country is so urban oriented and Congressional members, for the most part, have little agricultural background.

"As America becomes more urban, you have a whole lot of people with the best intentions in the world, but who don't appreciate agriculture."

Whitten went on to praise the League and its work, including the sound sugar program written in the 1981 Farm Bill, which provides for a commodity credit loan to be issued for each year's sugar crop.

But the congressman said, "We need the government to use the Commodity Credit Corporation as it was intended. We have the best weapon in the world (against subsidized foreign producers) but we have to use it."

Inmate stabbed to death

By PAULEVANS

BELLE GLADE -An argument at the Glades Correctional Institute (GCI) on Sunday Nov. 18 apparently led to the stabbing death of inmate Dennis Noary on Tuesday Nov. 20.

Noary, a Pinellas county resident, serving a life sentence for robbery, possession of firearms and grand theft of an automobile and Gregory Kasabian also of Pinellas county and serving a fifteen year sentence for burglary, grand theft of an automobile and forgery, had argued Sunday and had apparently resumed their argument on Tuesday.

According to Palm Beach County Sheriff Detective Steve Haller, the stabbing occurred in the compound area of GCI near the Education building at 12:53 p.m. Noary was stabbed three or four times in the chest with a home made knife made from the tine of a pitch fork. There were no witnesses to the stabbing, but correctional officers found Kasabian was seen by officers in possession of the knife. Kasabian relinquished the knife when told to and was arraigned before Bell Glade Judge Don T. Adams on Wednesday Nov. 21 on a charge of first degree murder.

Cane League meeting

Whitten urged producers of all commodities to pull together.
"If ever there was a time to pull together, it's now. We have to have mutual support, or all agricultural producers suffer."
Other political figures were also in attendance, lending their support to the League and its programs.

Congressman Tom Lewis (R-12th District) was there to introduce Whitten and U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles (D-FL) called the League "a tremendous help to Florida, very responsive to the state's needs."

Doyle Conner, Florida's Commissioner of Agriculture, had a few brief remarks. He urged the congressional members present to maintain strict regulations on our nation's borders to reduce problems such as the medfly and citrus canker which have plagued the state.

The Sugar Cane League also announced its new officers for 1984-85. Those elected were Fritz Stein, Stein Farms, president; Jose Fanjul, Osceola Farms Company, 1st vice president; Nelson Fairbanks, United States Sugar Corporation, 2nd vice president; Francisco Pons, Atlantic Sugar Association, Secretary-Treasurer; Joe Marlin Hilliard, Hilliard Brothers, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer; Dalton Yancey, executive vice president; J.R. Osenigo, vice president-research and Horace Godfrey, vice president-Washington representative.

Special recognition awards were given out at the luncheon too. Riley Miles, recently retired executive director of the Water Users Association, was recognized for his work with that group and his instrumental participation in the organization of the National Environmental Development Association. NETA is a coalition of industry, labor and agriculture.

Kerry Sanders, reporter for WINK-TV in Ft. Myers, was given the media award for his coverage of the sugar industry. David Phillips was recognized for his support of the industry in the Miami area and Harry Vaughn received the past president's award.

The League also released its annual report. Information on the work of the legislative committee includes details on a continuation of the sugar program, immigration bill reform (Simpson-Mazzoli bill), wetlands legislation in the state legislature, U.S. clean water reforms and of course, the 1985 Farm Bill.

On the environmental front, details were provided on the continued operation of an ambient air network, air emissions, open burning program, industrial waste, groundwater, stormwater and other local water issues.

The report also outlined work on agriculture research, public communications and safety.

Marijuana harvest—

several areas in the county where the FDLE could look.

One of the areas, a stretch of S.R. 78 between Moore Haven and Lakeport, contained two plots of marijuana located within several hundred yards of the road.

"We found it late yesterday (Thursday) afternoon," said FDLE agent John Sullivan, standing hip deep in marijuana. "It was too late then to do anything with it."

Glades Sheriff's Deputy Jessie Aldrich, In-

2 charged with felony possession

Randall J. Draughon and Deirdre Lynn were charged with a felony, according to Glades County 2, Box 67 Moore Sheriff's Investigator Tommy Herne.

Herne estimates that the plants found at the Red Barn Road residence of Bowen and Draughon will weigh about three pounds once they have been dried.

Bowen was released on her own recognizance and bond for Draughon was set at $25,000, but he was released Sunday after posting $21,710 in cash. Draughon is on probation for cocaine possession.

A suspect must have over 20 grams of marijuana. After running a field test on the plants, Herne will send a sample to a lab for a microscopic examination, but their is little doubt in his mind that what he has is marijuana.

investigator Tommy Herne and an FDLE agent set up all night watching the two patches to make sure the plants would still be there in the morning.

"It was just a routine surveillance," said Jessie Aldrich, who watched the larger of the two patches with the aid of the department's dog. Before landing at Clewiston Airport on Friday morning, Graham's plane circled the two patches so he could receive a quick lesson in sighting marijuana from the air.

"You have to look for an electric green color or pots and cultivating materials on the ground," Graham told reporters after embarking from the plane. "They looked like pretty mature plants."

Graham then led a media caravan to the first of the two plots. Before Graham began cutting down the plants with a machete, Sullivan explained the growing procedure to reporters.

"Value is a strange thing," he said. "If you wait until absolute maturity and treat them right, this plot could be worth $15,000."

The plot Sullivan referred to contained 29 plants as tall as 14 feet. He estimated them to be 15 to 20 days from maturation.

When Graham was questioned as to the cost effectiveness of the operation, he replied that "We put a dent (in the drug traffic) to the extent of 25 or 50 plants. But I hope this is also sending a message to people who want to get into this."

"We're indicating that law enforcement is prepared to act and deter others from doing this," Graham said.

Graham explained that Friday's operation in Glades County is part of an FDLE program which concentrates on northern areas of the state in the summer, and southern areas of the state during fall and winter.

The division of FDLE which accompanied Graham was the Local Law Enforcement Assistance Program. "Domestic marijuana eradication is their specialty," says Glades County Sheriff's Investigator Tommy Herne.

Graham said the Glades County Sheriff's Department was "very instrumental" in the operation. "The FDLE people have been very complimentary of the Glades County Sheriff's Office," said Graham.

On numerous occasions, Glades County Sheriff Russell Henderson has stressed the need for local, state and federal authorities to cooperate in battling drug trafficking.

Before Graham's plane landed at the Clewiston Airport, Henderson said operations like Friday's wouldn't be possible without state help, given the relatively small budget of the sheriff's office.

"It would take our whole budget just investigating one case," Henderson said.

As an example of how the FDLE can help local departments, Herne cites a Local Law Enforcement Assistance training program held in Collier County. Through the program, Herne received lessons on spotting marijuana from the air and viewed video tapes detailing the effect 100 high-grade marijuana plants can have on the local economy.

"Friday's operation just goes to show what cooperation can do," says Sheriff Henderson.

FDLE AGENT John Sullivan shows Gov. Bob Graham a bud on one of the marijuana plants. Sullivan explained how marijuana growers uproot the male plants to make the female plants more resinous and thus more potent.

A Pinch of Salt

You should thank Sarah Hale too

When you sit down to eat turkey today, thank the Lord for Sarah Hale.

The first Thanksgiving Day was celebrated in America by the Pilgrims in 1621. In 1789 George Washington issued a proclamation to commemorate the first Thanksgiving celebrated by the Pilgrims. But the third president of the United States, Thomas Jefferson, called it a "kingly practice" and discontinued it. Individual states observed Thanksgiving, but after Jefferson it was not celebrated as a national holiday.

Then in 1828 a lady by the name of Sarah Hale began to campaign for the restoration of Thanksgiving as a national holiday. Mrs. Hale was at the time editor of a magazine called Godey's Lady's Book. We would remember her better as the author of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

For 35 years Mrs. Hale wrote letters, met with national leaders and did all that she could, in those days of before women lib, to establish Thanksgiving as a national holiday. She was told it was "impossible" and "impractical."

Finally in 1863 President Lincoln listened to her plea for the North and South, engaged in Civil War, to "lay aside enmities and strife on (Thanksgiving) Day." Lincoln made the official proclamation that the fourth Thursday of November would be National Thanksgiving Day. In 1941 Congress ratified it.

It took the devotion and persistence of Sarah Hale to get it done, but now we have an annual reminder to thank God for His goodness to us. But let me remind you to observe the true meaning of Thanksgiving. Time editor of a magazine called Godey's Lady's Book. We would remember her better as the author of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

City considers action against bootleg taxis

PAHOKEE—The city council met on Tuesday Nov. 20, a week late and argued over a councilman's possible conflict of interests, how to deal with bootleg taxi drivers and what to do with $104,000 in revenue sharing funds. The meeting started out with Council President W.C. McKinstry apologizing for cancelling the meeting which was supposed to be held on Nov. 13. The meeting became a bit heated when local taxi drivers asked that the city take more drastic steps to curb the amount of bootleg taxi driving which occurs in the city. Cab drivers James Scler-van and Henry Crawford complained that police were handing out too many warnings and not taking more drastic measures. City Marshall, Carmen Salvatore III, admitted that the city did give out a large number of warnings, but stated that unless an officer witnesses money changing hands, a warning was the only action available.

Temper appeared to flair again when Councilman Ronnie Greydon suggested that Councilman Rashley might possibly be creating a conflict of interests by being both a councilman and a volunteer firefighter. Greydon suggested that Rashley be granted a leave of absence until he was no longer a councilman, even though City Clerk Betty McCoy had already assured the council that there was no conflict of interest. Council President McKinstry managed to regain order and stated that he was sure that nobody wanted to see Rashley resign or take a leave of absence.

Another tense, but minor incident occurred when Mrs. Lucy Baines requested that the council return a fifty dollar deposit which her son had been forced to pay after his water was turned off due to delinquent payments. The council examined the invoice for the bill and was unable to understand it. President McKinstry instructed the city clerk and Director of Utilities Ed Balmer to reexamine the incident with Baines and then report back to the council. In other matters, the council:

- Council members and department heads were instructed to turn in their "Wish Books" for whatever equipment they might need. The equipment, if purchased would come from the $109,000 Pahokee will soon receive in revenue sharing funds.

- Handily passed a request by Girl Scout Troop 92 that they be granted permission to landscape the area around a park community building. Troop leader Julie Johnson stated that the troop would provide the plants and other related material.

- Listed to bids from two firms to resurface the city's tennis courts and add wind screens to them. The first bid from TMT Fitness Equipment was $4,876. The second, from Tennis Supply of Lake Worth was $4,037. The matter was turned over to Councilman Rashley for further consideration.

- Granted a request from the Glades Ebony Women's Club for $100 for their annual Glades Ebony Christmas Parade.

- Agreed to take bids for a new roof for the city's boat shed. Councilman Rashley suggested that the money could be allocated from the harbor fund.

Meat-loaded tractor-trailer overturns

SOUTH BAY—A tractor-trailer carrying a load of frozen Oscar Meyer meat overturned on U.S. 27 on Monday, Nov. 18, destroying the trailer and its contents and slightly injuring the driver.

According to Gerald Francis Baker of Tampa apparently lost control at this point and the vehicle skidded across the road, demolishing the trailer and its contents and depositing the tractor and Baker halfway in a canal.

Baker became pinned under the dashboard of the trailer and, ambulance attendants had to use special equipment to remove him from the vehicle. Traffic was blocked in one lane until a crane arrived to remove the tractor from the canal and was then rerouted to a dirt road until mid afternoon when the tractor was retrieved. Baker was treated at the hospital for numerous cuts and bruise and was released. No charges have been filed.

Local minister wins Council of Churches Award

By BILL DOUGHTY

The Reverend Jack Winnett, pastor of the Clewiston Community Presbyterian Church, said he was "shocked and surprised" to learn that he had been awarded the Community Service Citation from the Florida Council of Churches recently.

The council named him for the award at their annual assembly Nov. 13 and 14 in Leesburg.

The citation was in recognition of Winnett's outstanding community service work with Caribbean and Central American refugees, especially his involvement with the Haitian Literacy Program in Belle Glade which was detailed in the August 29 issue of The Clewiston News.

Briefly, the program is run by Winnett and Reverend David Evans of the Everglades Presbyterian Church in Belle Glade. The primary objective is to teach Haitian refugees to speak and understand English, after first teaching these skills in their native Creole tongue (Creole is a mixture of African dialects and French).

In addition, the program teaches them how to get along in everyday life in America, about the system, social environment, hygiene, living skills, transportation, industry and faith.

Winnett's commitment to people and his faith are evident in everything he does. Upon an initial meeting with him, one is struck immediately by his enthusiasm for life and an energy that belies his 59 years.

A measure of the kind of man Winnett is can be found in the road he has traveled to the ministry.

There are not many people who could give up an eight-and-a-half year sales career with a pharmaceutical company to devote their lives to their faith. But that is just what Winnett did. "It just seemed as though there had to be more in life for than what I had found. It was the spirit of the Lord that motivated me. There's just no other way to explain it," he said.

"I had a good job and economically, I had everything I could want. I just wasn't satisfied."

Make no mistake, it was not an easy decision. "There was a long period of reflection. I had four children at the time and here I was, wondering whether I should stop my income, move from my house and sell the car. My wife, Lee, was understandably shocked at first. But she became my staunchest supporter. I would never have made it without her; she's made untold sacrifices, as do most minister's wives."

Winnett and his wife of 35 years were childhood sweethearts, having grown up together in Washington, Pa. about 30 miles south of Pittsburgh.

His family moved to Miami in his preschool years, but would soon return to Washington at the outset of the Depression.

Winnett attended grade school and high school in Washington, before going on to nearby Waynesburg College. There he received a B.S. degree in business administration, before going to work for Parke-Davis.

The clergyman said that prior to his decision to enter the seminary, he was only nominally religious, although he did serve as deacon for his church in Uniontown, Pa.

He also said that one of the most important influences in his life was the pastor at that church because he helped him make the decision.

"He steered me into the ministry and confirmed in my mind that I indeed was doing the right thing," said the pastor.

He looked into the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. There he met another man who would help make his decision, Addison Leach, president of the Seminary.

"He was confident I had the qualities they were looking for. He convinced me to go ahead with my plans."

So in 1959, Winnett entered the seminary at the age of 34. He served as a student pastor and was eventually ordained in June of 1963 and graduated from the seminary that October, with a Master of Divinity degree with a major in Parish work.

Prior to coming to Clewiston, Winnett served as pastor in the Grace United Presbyterian Church in Martin's Ferry, Ohio and later for two country churches in Toronto, Ohio.

He came to Clewiston in November of 1977, seeking, as many northerners do, a change in lifestyle.

"I'd always loved it in Florida, it was in my blood. My family always came here on vacation. Besides, I was ready for a change in environment."

Winnett has always been involved in community service throughout his career, but when he arrived here, he became committed to the problems of refugees from Central America and the Caribbean. It was easy to see his commitment to the projects, because during our conversation, he always returned to the plight of these people.

He first became involved after meeting three Nicaraguan families who had fled the Communist government there, coming to Clewiston under the sponsorship of Oscar and Sarah Grogan.

"I saw a need," said Winnett, "there were more and more people coming to this area. These were dynamic, dedicated Christians who weren't willing to accept Communism. They had to leave."

At about the same time, he also became involved with Haitian refugees, whose situation Winnett says is somewhat different.

"For one thing they're under a dictator (Jean-Claude Duvalier) who runs what many people have called the most ruthless regime in the world. For another, these are a cultured people, they have come heavily under French influence. Also, the dominant religion there is voodoo."

So it was that Winnett and Evans began their program in Belle Glade. Actually, it is an extension of a program in Haiti, run by the World Services organization. It is based on the idea that the teachers will instruct a group of students and these students will go on to teach another group, so the education will continually spread.

REV. JACK WINNETT displays the Community Service citation from the Florida Council of Churches.

Rev. Jack Winnett—

Evans has known Winnett for some six years and they "exchange pulpits" once a year, each preaching in the others church.

"He's a good friend, truly a person who tries to show the love of God in his life," said Evans. Looking to the future, Winnett hopes to continue working on the literacy program in Belle Glade. He also fervently hopes that the lines of communications between this country, especially from politicians in the Miami area, and Haitian diplomats will be expanded.

"We have to break down the communication barriers, we have to sit down and talk with them, to understand their viewpoints. They're basically the same as us, they have the same needs."

He would also like to see people who are interested in missionary work consider living in Haiti.

"We need different kinds of people to go; young people, businessmen, doctors and nurses; establish some cultural exchanges. We have the greatest mission field in the world less than an hour away. People don't have to go to Africa to fulfill a need."

As for Clewiston, Winnett sees it as a special place.

"There are the problems of most every community, the problems of living together, of experiencing the transforming spirit in their lives, of trying to love one another. No one has the power to do these things. Only God gives it."

"I see Clewiston as a caring, loving community; a very special place. I would like to see it continue this way and to grow."

Clewiston becomes more special because of men like Jack Winnett.

Kindergarten prepares turkey

PAHOKEE Every year for the past six or seven years, the Pahokee elementary school kindergarten class of Mrs. Mary Thomas works together to prepare themselves a turkey dinner, and this year was no exception.

The school cafeteria staff cooks the turkey for the pre-schoolers and then children, with the help of Thomas and other volunteers the children prepare beans, dressing, fruit salad and corn.

"We haven't thought of anything for Christmas yet," Thomas says, "but we will."

Turkey shoot rated a success

BELLE GLADE The Belle Glade Volunteer Fire Department put on their first annual turkey shoot last weekend with approximately 1,500 attending.

Firefighter Frank Kimbro said the event netted the volunteers approximately $1,700 with 138 turkeys distributed to as many winners.

Funds from the shoot will be used to purchase equipment for the volunteers, according to Kimbro, who added that plans are already being made for next year's shoot.

Kimbro said the children's turnout was so large that the department has decided to add a "kids only" during certain hours on the Saturday of the event.

A drawing was held at the end of the second day of the turkey shoot with Mark Burch winning the shotgun, Ronald Davis the black and white television, Bill Towell the watch and Cecil Kelly the rod and reel.

Those who won turkeys are also entered in a national drawing for prizes sponsored by Field and Stream magazine.

Pitching in for Thanksgiving feast

BELLE GLADE Last year Glades Central High School initiated a new program, it's called a Thanksgiving feast.

"The cafeteria ladies volunteered to do this," Vice-Principal Gene Campbell said, "They don't mind going that extra mile."

In order to provide a pleasant atmosphere, the cafeteria staff hold various fund raising events during the year to raise money for decorations, table cloths and other amenities.

"It seems when we do these little things for the kids, they react better," Campbell says. "This is the cafeteria ladies way of pitching in."

Honor students named

BELLE GLADE Sheila Police and Cathy Hamilton, both of Belle Glade, presently attending Florida Memorial College, were named as honor students at Florida Memorial College.

The honor was given at a Florida Memorial College Building Fund banquet held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Miami, Friday, Nov. 16.

Thanksgiving baskets for the needy

By ELKE SCHWARZ SOUTH BAY Thanksgiving baskets were given to three needy families at the West Palm Beach housing project on Tuesday night, Nov. 20.

Receiving the baskets of goodies were Delta Jean Ford and Rosie Anderson, both residents of South Bay, and Mrs. Joyce Vincent of Belle Glade. The Thanksgiving baskets contained a turkey, potatoes, canned goods, and various other items.

Donating the Thanksgiving baskets to needy families is only one of the projects sponsored by the Eldorado Club, a civic organization in Belle Glade and South Bay. This project has been done for the past ten years. Mrs. Dorothy Jean Davis, a member of the Eldorado Club and also manager of the West Palm Beach housing project, sees the importance of helping people in need.

"I deal with many needy families," Mrs. Davis said. "It's such a good feeling when you help somebody."

The needy families are chosen by the Eldorado Club with the aid of other agencies such as the Migrant Education Agency in Belle Glade. Both organizations go out in the community and deal directly with the public. Other projects the Eldorado Club sponsors are parties for mental health and a sickle cell anemia fundraiser.

Gators stomp Melbourne 40-0 for homecoming

BELLE GLADE — Since Glades Day started playing tackle football 12 years ago the Gators have never lost a homecoming game. So in keeping with tradition, the team stomped Melbourne Central Catholic 40-0 last Friday, Nov. 16.

Coach Byron Walker Jr. said Friday's game was "similar" to the Moore Haven game. The Gators took the ball and ran it up to the end, he said. Homecoming spirit throughout the community was credited to the team's good performance.

"The team was up. On homecoming, everybody gets into it with all the activities and stuff," said Linebacker Philip Echois. "We get up. We don't lose homecoming here." But the Gators don't seem to lose many games with their 9-2 record. This week the team will be fighting for the regional title when they play Northwest Christian in Miami Friday, Nov. 23.

"We expect to see a wishbone offense, good team speed and quickness," Walker said. "But we also expect to win."

Walker said the Gators are preparing for this Friday's game, but he also feels the team stands a good chance of winning.

"If we do the things we prepared to do we'll win," he said.

But the Gator's head coach also said the team can't take it for granted.

"You can't take anything for granted in high school football or you'll be taking it for granted in another location," Walker said.

Echols wins rushing title

BELLE GLADE
Gator linebacker Philip Echols has claimed the title of leading rusher for his second consecutive year as the Glades Day team enters into the regional playoffs.

Echols ended out the season with 1,407 yards rushing and scored a total of 138 points, 21 touchdowns and 6 two-point conversions.

He said he credits his performance because of the good coaching staff and the good linemen.

"The coaching staff is always on top of things," the modest linebacker said. "Week after week they are preparing us as a team."

Echols said he has been playing football for about eight years and always as a linebacker.

He played for Christian Day up until his sophomore year in high school. He left the Crusader team when their record was 5-4.

"I transferred because there is better competition here," Echols said. "Glades Day is football oriented."

Echols said he plans to play college football but he hasn't decided where he intends to go.

He said he hopes he will get a football scholarship.

Pahokee beats Spanish River Sharks

PAHOKEE

Sophomore quarterback Pernell McKelton led the Pahokee Blue Devils to a 52 to 6 victory over the Spanish River Sharks on Friday Nov. 16 giving the Devils a 5-5 game record at the end of the season.

"It was an incredible game," said Pahokee coach Donald Thompson, "when you take in to consideration that they are a Four A team and we are a Two A team."

"This was a good record for the season," Thompson added, "but it could have been a great season if we'd gotten into the state playoffs."

As it was, the Devils did walk away as co-champions for the first time since Thompson was a player in 1954. They share that title this season with Delray Beach.

McKelton played an extraordinary game, completing 13 of 21 passes for 253 yards with three touchdowns. He was also able to connect on scoring passes of 69 and 25 yards to Kenny Berry and 50 yards to Donald Edwards. He capped the game by passing for three two-point conversions and running for two conversions. James Anderson managed to recover a fumble in the end zone and score and Pell Thompson, Eric Butler and Alphonso Smith made touch down runs for the Pahokee team.

Hammonds leads Raiders to win

Glades Central quarterback Kenny Hammonds concluded a brilliant career in spectacular fashion, throwing three touchdown passes to wide receiver Waddell Jefferson Friday night, Nov. 16 as the Raiders romped over Cardinal Newman 21-7.

Central coach Dan Brown called Hammonds' performance his finest all year, adding, "He really went out in style. All year long we've had a lot of dropped passes, but tonight he found someone who could hang on." That someone was Jefferson, who gathered in seven passes for 153 yards, despite playing the second half on a painful twisted ankle.

Hammonds finished with 12 completions in 18 attempts, rolling up a total of 214 yards through the air.

In addition to his aerial show, Hammonds was also the game's leading rusher, picking up 79 yards on six carries. Johnny Ivery gained 55 yards in 13 attempts and Darrell Sanders had 45 yards on ten runs. It was a big play night for the Raiders, who jumped out to the lead on their very first drive of the night, as Hammonds found Jefferson on a 29-yard touchdown pass.

Glades Central went up 14-0 in the second quarter as the duo of Hammonds and Jefferson hooked up on a scoring pass from 20 yards out.

The Crusaders crept close at 14-7 when Craig Erickson and

Ted Cotrain teamed up for a 36-yard scoring

Fishing on the Big O with Tennessee

Night time seems to be the best time for catching Specks right now. They are still moving and haven't stabilized for the winter yet.

Catching trophy bass has been good this past week for several fishermen. Nick Berger of Detroit, Michigan fishing with Mac McGinnis came in with a 10 lb. 8 oz. bass, using shiners around Grassy Lee Miner of West Palm Beach, again fishing with Mac McGinnis brought home a 10 lb. 12 oz. bass, with shiners and again on Grassy.

Garland Berryhill with Joe Scott was real proud of the 10 pounder he caught on South Shore.

My guide party of Art Kajander of Stuart came in with a 9 lb. 14 oz. bass on Tuesday.

Safety is a factor that cannot be stressed enough. When there are more than two people in a boat casting with fires extreme caution should be used so that no one is injured. Keep your eye on your fishing buddies - know where everyone is BEFORE you cast. Having to have hooks cut out is no fun for anyone.

Last week I told you that I'd have a good tip for all tournament bass fishermen. The following was written by Tony Wheeler and published with the permission of Larry Douglas of Bill Branch Chevrolet/Bass Tournament Trail.

TECHNICAL REASONS FOR THE USE OF CATCH AND RELEASE

We at Jungle Laboratories Corporation would like to give you some of our ideas on handling the bass fish that have been caught, and how our product will counter-attack six problems and correct their environment.

A vital constituent of all fish blood is chlorine. Chlorides lost when fish are moved or handled. This loss, if severe, causes a fish to go into shock and die. Loss of chlorides causes loss of slime resistance to the water, allowing bacterial and fungus penetration that a fish could normally fight off very easily. We can replace these chlorides with CATCH AND RELEASE. This is why you must always treat the bass after they have been hooked.

When fish are crowded into a livewell or holding tank, it is essential that the skin be cleaned of fungus and fungus strands be removed from their gills. The ingredient we use for this problem also quickly restores normal breathing when fish have been gassing at the surface.

In all water systems, including lakes, one or more of the following may be found: chlorine, copper, heavy metals and insecticides. CATCH AND RELEASE neutralizes chlorine instantly by turning it into normal table salt. Copper and heavy metal contaminants are also neutralized. Many fishermen add ice to their livewells to reduce the water temperature. However, the ice is full of chlorine which burns the bass.

CATCH AND RELEASE neutralizes this chlorine instantly. CATCH AND RELEASE also makes some very harmful poisons inactive. These include insecticides, crop sprays and other airborne poisons. All of these poisons are more harmful to fish in their weakened state while in a livewell or holding tank.

CATCH AND RELEASE also contains germ inactivators which will kill many disease germs on contact. This chemical can reduce infections and give some protection against diseases that the bass may come in contact with.

Other ingredients draw oxygen into the water and circulate it to the bottom continuously. This is another reason why you must always treat the bass after they have been hooked. These same chemicals also kill bacteria and stimulate slime glands to produce slime that everyone knows is removed in handling, netting, etc.

There is also a tranquilizer in CATCH AND RELEASE. This tranquilizer can reduce stress. It also reduces the bass' need for oxygen and reduces excretion into the water. These excretions would help foul the water and cause a rise in ammonia levels which are deadly to all fish. A fish that is not tranquilized may thrash around in the livewell return to his normal or holding tank and harm himself. The fish that is tranquilized will condition within seconds after being placed in fresh water. If you care about our bass resource, you should do the things we indicate on this sheet for the hooked bass.

BELLE GLADE-PAHOKEE, FL.

Pioneer banker recalls Pahokee's early days

By PAUL EVANS

PAHOKEE—His business card describes him as a "Has Been," but he's hardly that. Rupert Mock Sr. came to Pahokee in 1928 and started off as a gas station attendant. When he retired from the business world 50 years later, he did so as the President and Chairman of the Board of Palm Beach County's oldest bank.

"I'm just an old country banker," Mock says. "Everything in my life has happened here. I married here, raised a family which I'm proud of and I have a record in the community which I'm proud of too."

Originally from Georgia, Mock moved to Punta Gorda with his family when he was 8 years old.

"When we came here (in the 1920's), things were tough all over," Mock says.

Mock's father had some friends in the area and so, finding it too difficult to find a job in Georgia, he came down to Florida and ended up operating a small furniture shop in Punta Gorda, and eventually he branched out into farming.

Mock moved to Pahokee in 1928, and soon after went to work at the Palm service station, which lies caddy corner to the Bank. On April 21, 1931, Mock went to work at the Bank of Pahokee as a handyman. Over the years, Mock rose through the ranks, occupying he says, every position until he was appointed President in 1961 and Chairman of the board the next year.

"The only difference when I became president," Mock says, "was that I didn't have anyone to go to when I didn't understand something."

During the time he's been here, Mock feels that things have stayed pretty much the same. The town was started by fisherman, he says, but the focus soon changed to agriculture and has pretty much stayed that way.

One major change, Mock says, came as a result of the 1928 Hurricane which killed 2000 people in the Okeechobee area. After the hurricane, President Hoover, who was an engineer, came down, inspected the damage and commissioned a dike to be built around the lake.

"Before they built the dike," Mock says, looking out into his back yard, "I used to have waterfront property." Today, the dike and a good deal of land separate Mock's yard from the waterfront.

"I remember back before they built it, (the dike) Mock says, "Everytime we'd get a good rain, the lake would come pouring down Main street."

Like many others in the Okeechobee area, Mock worries about the increasing cultivation and irrigation in west and south Florida and the strain the increased cultivation may have on the lake. He also worries about the great amount of soil which is lost each year through soil oxidation.

Another concern Mock shares with the community is the concern over the number of newcomers in the area and the fact that a lot of them can not find adequate housing.

"Land here is expensive," Mock says, "And the people who own it don't need to sell it."

Although Pahokee hasn't really grown much, there has been a lot of growth in the area as a whole. When Mock first came to Pahokee, the focus of events in the area was in Canal Point. In the 1920's, that focus shifted to the Pahokee area and in the 1930's, it shifted to Bell Glade.

Through all these shifting, the Bank of Pahokee and Rupert Mock Sr. thrived.

"During the depression," Mock says, "the Bank of Pahokee was the only bank in the Palm Beach area that didn't go under."

RUPERT MOCK's business card proclaims him a "Has Been," but his career says otherwise.

In his role as a country banker, Mock says that at one time he knew everyone from Martin County to the Okeechobee county line. One of those people was farmer Fritz Stein Jr.

"I don't know of a time when I didn't know him (Mock)," Stein says. I guess I've known him for thirty or forty years."

Stein feels that Mock has had a great impact on the Pahokee area as a banker and a friend.

"The Bank of Pahokee has financed a lot of small farmers," Stein says. "The philosophy of the bank and Mr. Mock was, if they had a lot of faith in the man, that faith often weighed more than anything else in whether he got the loan or not."

"I think if you ask a lot of his (former) customers, he had a big impact on the community," Mock's son, W. Rupert Mock Jr. says.

The younger Mock, who is a vice president at the Bank of Pahokee feels that it was his father's compassion and ability to understand people's problems and needs which made him so important to the community.

"Most of the people didn't have much money when they moved here," Mock Sr. says, "and a lot of those people are millionaires today. I helped a lot of them to make that money, although I didn't make that much for myself."

Over the years, other banks, and some of the banking chains, tried to merge with or buy out the Bank of Pahokee, but the owners have resisted and have maintained the image as a country bank.

In 1979, a year after his son had gone to work for the Bank of Pahokee, Mock went into semi-retirement, resigning as president, and on April 1, 1981, Mock retired from the bank entirely to pursue a career as the "Has Been" banker his card proclaims him to be.

Today his interests include gardening, hunting, fishing and raising quail. He also says he likes being away from home as much as possible with his wife of 48 years, Marjorie.

At 74, Mock is proud of the fact that he had fifty years working at the same bank, and he's also proud of the fifty-six years that he's spent in the Pahokee area.

"I've been a part of this community," Mock says, "you can ask anybody about that."

'I remember back before they built it [the dike]. Everytime we'd get a good rain the lake would come pouring down Main Street.'

'The name of the game is sugar'

By SUZIE MAYBURY

Pelican Village Supervisor, Russell York (Right) and asst. supervisor, Warren Spell check the sugar content in a stock of cane freshly burned. Monday Nov. 19.

BELLE GLADE—After chopping cane for most of the day, a soot covered cane cutter packs up his water jug, hurls his leg guards on his head and cuts a piece of sugar cane to chew on while he hikes back to the labor camp.

The migrant worker from the British West Indies has been coming to the Glades for more than 20 years to work in the muck fields under smoke-filled skies.

"We work for blood out here," he said, not wanting to be identified. "But the work keeps us in shape."

Every day the cane cutters hit the fields to chop the freshly burnt cane. All the fields are burnt first to make it easier for the cane to be cleaned and cut according to Russell York, supervisor of Pelican Lake Village.

"We burn the shucks off," York said. "We have to get the wind right first. If you burn with the wind it burns faster."

On Monday afternoon, Nov. 19, York and the assistant supervisor, Warren Spell, decided to burn the 40 acres from the northeast corner of the field because the wind was blowing out of the southeast.

Spell said it takes about 30 minutes to burn 40 acres.

After the field is burned the cane is tested for the sugar content. The sucrose level is measured by a fractometer which indicates where the cutters should begin cutting.

"If the fractometer number is high then the sugar content is way up and the cutters can top the cane," Spell said. "Topping the cane" is cutting the tops of the cane and getting the most sugar possible, he said.

"If the number is low then we don't want it because it isn't as sweet," Spell said. During the season the cane fields are burnt everyday for 140 days. The crews each burn one field a day.

The work is hard and tiring and the days are long but every year the canes are burned and cut.

"The name of the game is sugar," Spell said.

Accelerated anti-drunk driver program announced

TALLAHASSEE - The Florida Highway Patrol announced plans today of implementing an accelerated anti-drunk driving campaign over the upcoming holiday periods. The campaign will commence Nov. 21, with the Thanksgiving holiday period and continuing through Christmas and New Years ending midnight Jan. 1, 1985.

Colonel Bobby R. Burkett, Director of the Florida Highway Patrol stated, "the program will involve a large scale public awareness program and intensive selective enforcement."

generous efforts of private organizations, 125 highway billboards have been made available for a three month period. They will carry the message "Drunk Driving Will Cost You...We Guarantee", and will display the FHP emblem", said Colonel Burkett. The billboards were donated by individual owners through The Outdoor Advertising Association. The printing of the billboard materials was funded by Waste Management Incorporated of Florida. The signs are spread throughout the state on major highways.

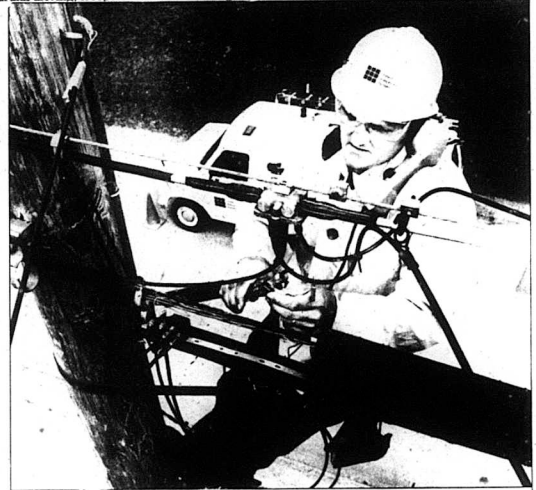

Colonel Burkett, whose troopers will be primarily responsible for the enforcement of Florida's drunk driving laws stated, "this period of the year is traditionally our most deadly when it comes to traffic accidents. This year we have predicted 42 deaths over the Thanksgiving period beginning November 21, and ending November 25; 53 during the Christmas period of December 21-25; and 33 over the New Years period of December 28 through January 1, 1985".

commented Colonel Burkett. "Our goal is to reduce this figure using strict enforcement and a widespread public education approach". "In addition to the highway billboards", Colonel Burkett said, "the Florida Restaurant Association has volunteered to print several thousand food tray liners to be used in numerous restaurant chains throughout the State of Florida. Our intent is to make this anti-drunk driving message as visible to motorists as possible during this period". "During the same holiday periods last year, 128 persons died in traffic accidents", Colonel Burkett stated, "every available trooper will be used to combat this problem. In addition to drunk driving, troopers will be concentrating on other accident causing violations such as unlawful speed, careless driving and violation of right-of-way". "Drunk driving is the most often committed violent crime in the United States today. Our message is clear "Drunk Driving Will Cost You", concluded Colonel Burkett.

United States today. Our message is clear "Drunk Driving Will Cost You", concluded Colonel Burkett.

Charles Nelson Reilly, nationally known actor, director, and television personality, has been named the 1984 National Honorary Spokesman for the "Angels of the World" Christmas fund-raising project to benefit mentally handicapped.

Reilly, familiar to television audiences for his appearances on "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir, The Match Game and The Johnny Carson Show, recently made his film debut in "Cannonball II." He is noted for his Broadway roles, which included "How To Succeed In Business," "Hello Dolly and Bye Bye Birdie."

He has directed some of the top names in the theatre including Dick Cavett, James Earl Jones and Julie Harris. He has also directed four operas.

Currently he is teaching his fifth year at the Burt Reynolds Institute for Theatre Training in Jupiter, Florida.

The Angels of the World are ceramic Christmas ornaments created by the internationally known sculptor Laszlo Ispanky, who has works in the Vatican, Smithsonian Institute and Buckingham Palace. He is known for the fine detail and regarded by other artists as the Living Master. The Angels are made by mentally handicapped adults as part of an independent work program at the T&M Ranch in Indian River, Florida. The 1984 angel is the second in the ten year series. It is Juliana of Holland and is limited to production of 20,000. It is presented in a gift box.

To purchase your "Angels of the World," send your $5 donation plus $2 shipping and handling to: Angels of the World, 5692 Penock Point Rd., Jupiter, Florida 33458.

The Angels of the World is a non profit foundation to create scholarships for high level, mentally handicapped adults for training in independent work and living. The Angels are also available in Hartford, Connecticut, Chicago, Illinois, Cincinnati, Ohio, Woodbridge, Virginia, Atlanta, Georgia and Palm Beach County and Sebring, Florida.

National Honorary Spokesman for "Angels of the World" Charles Nelson Reilly and thirteen year old Amy Taylor of Jupiter, Florida display the 1984 limited edition Christmas ornament, "Juliana of Holland."

City announces $69,000 jobs program

By PAUL EVANS

BELLE GLADE—It was a fairly routine meeting for the City Commission on Monday, Nov. 26, with members announcing a $69,000 jobs program, allocating $1,645 for a Christmas party and announcing Home Health Care Week, to be held the week of Nov. 25 to Dec. 1.

The major issue of the evening was the announcing of the job program for minorities. The project, building a sidewalk, will employ 12 men and will cost $69,000 from the Jobs Bill fund.

In other business, the commission turned down an invoice for $9,360.81 from Briley Wild and Associates, consulting engineers and planners. The bill was for resident construction services for waste treatment plant improvements.

The commission turned the invoice down because there was some question as to whether there were to be any further price reductions in the bill. Commissioners did accept invoices for $457.38 for waste treatment plant revising, $4,697.02 for facilities planning for sludge dewatering, $649.04 for Arrowhead pump station and force main, $791.15 for miscellaneous services and $479.75 for typing and base maps for the city's comprehensive plan.

City Clerk June H. Boglioli requested and received on behalf of the city's 235 employees, $1,045 for Christmas parties.

The City Attorney told the commissioners that the city needs a more efficient way of determining which areas of Belle Glade can and cannot be

Commissioner wants public's views

By ELKE SCHWARZ

BELLE GLADE—Newly elected County Commissioner Ken Adams held a public meeting on Monday, Nov. 26, at the Glades Office Building to ask for ideas and support in keeping Palm Beach county fit to live in for the present and for the future.

Adams was elected Palm Beach county commissioner on Nov. 6. He is replacing Bill Bailey, who retired from the commission on Nov. 19.

Adams would like to have an aid in Belle Glade who would serve the public when he is not in the city.

"An aid in the Glades," Adams called it. Max Weaver is his aid on the coast.

Issues discussed in the meeting included:

•The continuing support for widening state road 80

•The reconstruction of Airport Road east of Pruitt Village

•Water usage and land planning

•Establishing a citizens' advisory committee to review city government

•Forming an agricultural committee

Commissioner Adams said it is important to know what the public wants before making a decision.

"We care," said Adams. "Our doors and ears are always open."

Wastewater treatment plant conversion tabled by city

By PAUL EVANS

BELLE GLADE—Members of the city commission met for a special workshop on Tuesday, Nov. 27, to discuss the feasibility of converting the city's waste treatment program from a liquid sludge to a solid sludge system.

Spokesmen from the engineering and planning firm of Briley, Wild and Associates, Inc. were invited in, and proposed that the city convert to a solid sludge process.

The process, called dewatering, uses a centrifuge which spins and literally "dewaters" the sludge from the sewer system. The method presently in force in Belle Glade uses gravity.

The major differences are that sludge treated in a centrifuge has less liquid in it and has the consistency of a sponge. Sludge treated through the gravity process maintains its liquid form.

One of the major problems considered during the workshop was how to dispose of the sludge.

Using the present method, liquid sludge is taken away and dumped in specifically designated orange groves by a contractor. The sludge can not be disposed of anywhere near lake Okeechobee because of the threat of contaminating the water supply.

The solid sludge does not have that problem. It can be easily handled and is more compact than its liquid counterpart.

Argument ends in stabbing

By PAUL EVANS

BELLE GLADE—An argument on Thursday, Nov. 22, ended with the stabbing death of a 27-year-old Haitian man and the arrest of his 19 year-old girlfriend on a charge of first degree murder.

Police responded shortly after 11 p.m. Thursday to a complaint that someone was ill at the intersection of S.W. Avenue B and S.W. 5th Street.

Upon arriving, patrolman Mark Miller found Cenatus Celenor slouched against a car and bleeding from a wound in his chest. Rescue workers administered emergency treatment on the scene and then transferred Celenor to the hospital, where he died at 12:11 a.m.

Glades Detective William Kenny and Patrolman Miller had in the meantime employed local citizens as interpreters and had located a suspect.

The suspect, Emma Jean Grandison, had lived in the same apartment as Celenor and confessed to the stabbing after police had placed her into custody.

Detective Kenny found a small paring knife which police believe to be the murder weapon. Grandison was booked on first degree murder charges and was placed in the Palm Beach County jail where she is being held without bail.

This is the 11th murder so far this year in the Belle Glade area.
